

paragraphs and line breaks:

1. Paragraphs:

- Definition: A paragraph is a distinct section of text that focuses on a particular idea or topic. It is a way to organize and present information in a structured manner.

- Example: In the following passage, each group of sentences represents a separate paragraph:

...

The sun was setting, casting a warm glow over the horizon. Birds were returning to their nests, signaling the end of the day. As the city lights began to twinkle, a sense of calm settled in.

Meanwhile, in another part of town, preparations were underway for a lively night festival. Stalls were being set up, and the air buzzed with anticipation.

2. Line Breaks:

- Definition: A line break is a point at which a line of text ends and a new one begins. It is a way to control the layout and formatting of text within a document.

- Example: Consider the following text where line breaks are used to separate different pieces of information:

Name: John Doe
Age: 30
Occupation: Software Engineer

...

3. Creating Paragraphs in Text Editors:

- Explanation: In text editors, you typically create paragraphs by pressing the "Enter" or "Return" key twice, leaving a blank line between paragraphs.

- Example:

This is the first paragraph.

This is the second paragraph.

4. Creating Line Breaks in Text Editors:

- Explanation: To create a line break without starting a new paragraph, you can press the "Shift + Enter" keys in most text editors.

- Example:

This line ends here.
The next line starts immediately after without a paragraph break.

...

5. HTML Tags for Paragraphs and Line Breaks:

- Explanation: In HTML, `` tags are used for paragraphs, and ` ` tags are used for line breaks.

- Example:

```html
This is a paragraph.
This is another paragraph.

This is a line of text.

The next line starts here.
